ATC CHOOSES DOMAIN FOR PLM

Press Release

Dateline: January 13, 2005

Salt Lake City, UT

Domain Systems Inc., an information technology consulting organization and software development company, today announced that it has agreed to provide American Technology Corporation (ATC) with Agile software's premier product lifecycle management software. Domain will additionally implement Agile's Product Record Management module at DR.

American Technology Corporation leverages its innovative audio technologies in customized solutions for the commercial and government and force protection systems markets. American Technology will use Agile Product Collaboration to accelerate market share by helping it decrease time to market, optimize collaboration and allow ATC to be better able to achieve customer expectations of product performance.

Agile PLM will also drive improved quality and drive innovation during the new product introduction cycle allowing it to quickly respond to changing market needs.
